Allies Grinding Down on Soissons

(Associated Press Summary). Out of the news filtering thru the clouds of battle hanging over the sanguinary field between the Marne and Soissons, there have come two significant reports during the past day. The Allies are thundering at the gates of Soissons and the Germans are retreating across the Marne between Fumey and Osnilly.

German reserves rushed up to the west side of the Soissons-Chateau Thierry-Rheims salient have slowed down the progress made by the French and Americans, but have apparently been unable to do more than check it here and there along the front. The advance made by the Allies in the first hours of the great counter stroke has not been maintained, but it evidenced that hardly anywhere has the Allied thrust been stopped.

Reports from the front of battle indicate that the French and Americans have reached the edge of the plateau to the southwest of Soissons and only a short mile and a half from the center of the city.

Southward along the line, the Allies have almost reached the Soissons-Chateau Thierry road, a therefore of great strategic importance, while farther down toward the Marne they are steadily forging ahead in spite of the determined resistance.

The reports of a German retreat across the Marne came as confirmation of the success of the Allied drive far to the north. German forces south of the stream must be extricated quickly if the German army is to escape from the encircling movement carried on by the French and Americans. French official reports state that the Germans are being driven back south of the Marne, but it is probable that the German retreat is a hurried retreat ordered by the German high command.

It appears likely that the French are merely maintaining steady pressure against the enemy and hurrying his retreat as much as possible.

From the Marne towards Rheims the French and Italians have advanced their lines. Three days ago they were being forced back by the Germans and their present forward movement may indicate that the foe is also retreating from this field as rapidly as possible.

FILM STARS PLEASE CITY MOVIE FANS

Local picture fans were given an unusual treat Saturday and Sunday when two of the most celebrated stars of the movie world appeared in the city theaters.

Theda Bara in that widely read story of "Camille" at the Orpheus last night is given an opportunity to exhibit the type of acting to which she is best adapted. The thrilling scenes in this tragic play are given new emphasis when featured by this exceptional artist.

Douglas Fairbanks at the Star theater Saturday night smashed his way thru five reels of film in "Ray, Young Fellow," in a way that kept the audience in a continual awe. As a critic reporter he obtained difficult interviews in the same manner that road agents were formerly in the habit of taking funds from the public. This show is Fairbanks' latest and one of his very best.

Back stars played to packed houses.

NEBRASKA JUDGE NOW ENDORSES IT

HON. R. F. WHITTINGTON HAS GAINED TWENTY POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC

One of the distinguishing features of the introduction of Tanlac throughout the country is the large number of prominent men who have felt it their duty to disregard precedent and come forward with their unqualified endorsements of the medicine because of the benefits they have derived from its use.

The latest addition to the list of prominent endorsers is the name of Hon. Benjamin F. Whittington, Judge of the Nebraska court, South Omaha, Neb. In relating his experience with Tanlac Judge Whittington said:

"The results of Tanlac in my case certainly seem remarkable to me. Before I began taking it my health was broken in many ways and I did not know which way to turn for relief. My liver was all out of fix, I was habitually constipated and bilious. I was so frightfully dizzy most of the time that I could not stoop over for fear of falling. My kidneys were in bad shape, and I had fearful pains in the small of my back. My appetite seemed to be fairly good, that is, I could eat, but my food did not seem to be properly assimilated. Sleep failed to rest me, and I felt tired, languid and worn out all the time. I was pale, and not only felt badly but I looked that way. I had been in this condition for a year and was becoming badly worried because nothing seemed to reach my case.

"I had fallen off twenty pounds in weight as a result of my troubles, but I have gained it all back by using Tanlac and have never felt better in my life. I decided from what I read in the papers about it to try it, and I felt like a new man before I finished my first bottle. So I went right back for another and so on until I took five bottles and now I haven't an ache or a pain and am feeling great. And eat—my goodness! I eat like a farm hand, all I can get. I never saw anything like it. I sleep like a log, and get up in the mornings thoroughly refreshed and feel brim full of vim and energy all day long. Now, this is just what Tanlac has done for me and I gladly give this statement for what it may be worth to others who are trying to find relief."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by Star Drug Co. —Adv.

Germans Are Swept From South of Marne

By Associated Press With the American Army on the Marne, July 22.—The French and American forces have now broken thru the German lines to the northwest of Chateau Thierry.

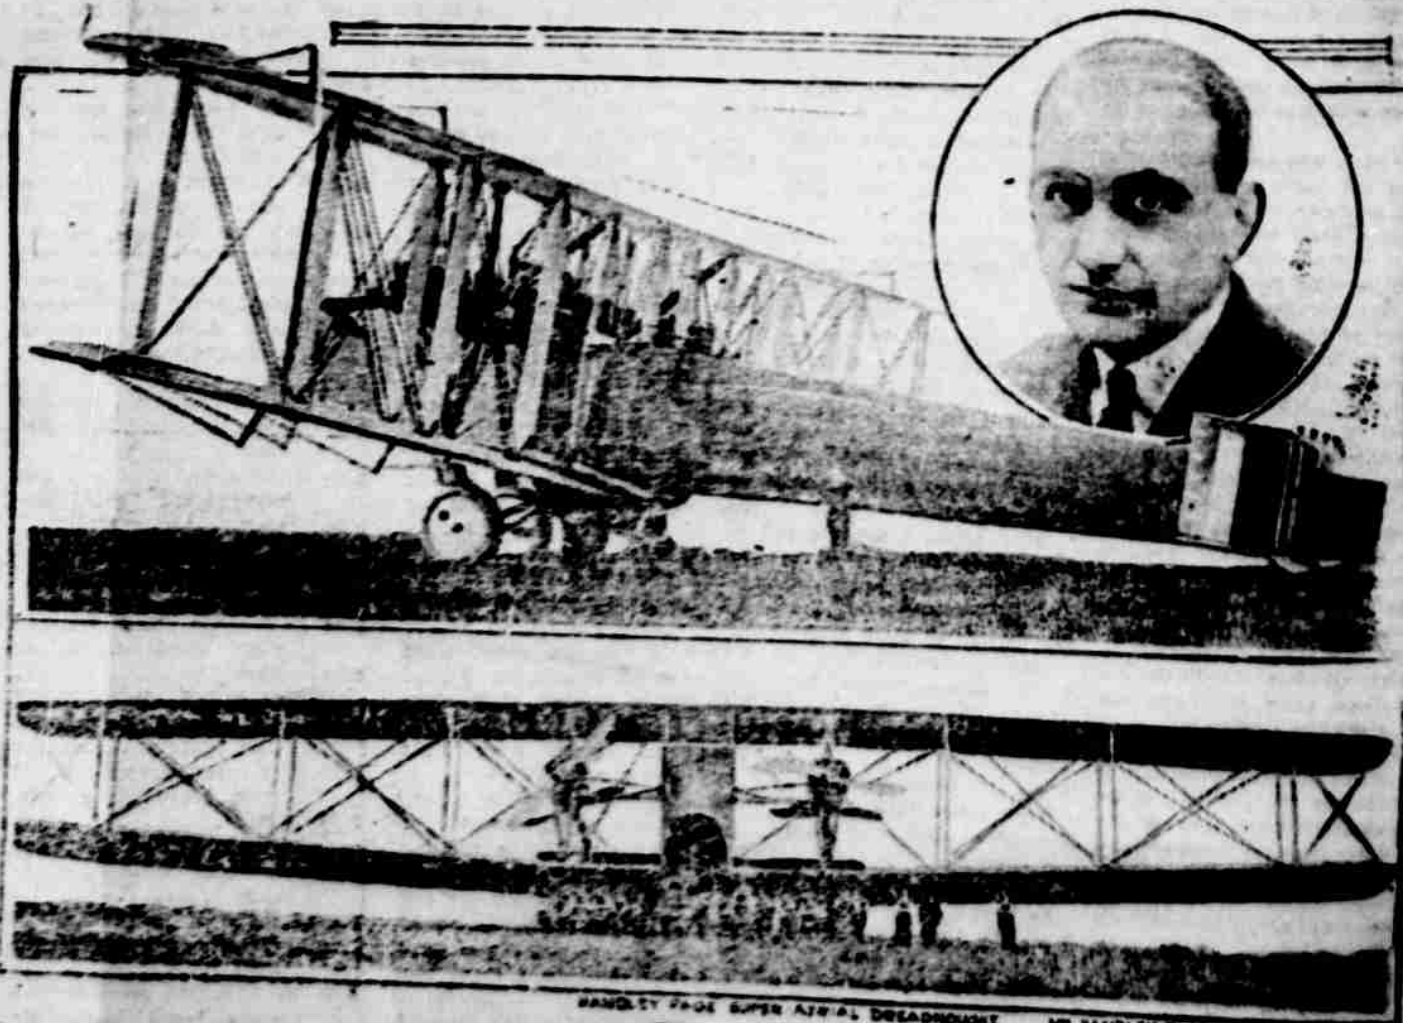

Paris, July 22.—The French and American forces continue to make progress, repelling the enemy, who are making an obstinate defense, according to an official statement.

An Allied attack from Chateau Thierry to Rheims began on Saturday. The American forces captured Hill No. 198, west of Vaux. They are now about two kilometers and holding their own. The German retreat across the Marne river began Friday under cover of a heavy smoke screen and at last reports great herds were pouring to the northward. There is organized resistance in only a few places. On the south of the Marne river and to the west of Chateau Thierry the district is entirely cleared of the Germans.

Paris, July 22. (Later).—French troops this morning entered Chateau Thierry in spite of violent opposition and continued north to the eastern south of Orléans. Between Rheims and the Marne river the French continue to advance.

He Would Fly 10,000 of These Across Atlantic and Win the War

W. H. Workman, representing Handley Page in the United States, asserts that it is feasible and practicable to build 10,000 Handley Page super-aerial dreadnaughts in the United States and fly them across the Atlantic ocean to win the war. These are bombing machines, which would drop such an enormous quantity of explosives on German cities that the people would cry out for peace. Mr. Workman is ready to send one of these machines across the ocean, so soon as the authorities at Washington will give him the motors with which to equip it. Mr. Page has built many similar machines in England.
